

SOONER

Volume, 44, Number 4

March 1971

in this issue...

This issue of the Sooner is a little different from the others this year (like the four-color cover for instance). We've moved the Campus Notes up front for some brief news flashes.

The major story this month is on the Greeks. With fraternities and sororities falling dead all over the country, we wondered if OU is different and if so why. So we interviewed a couple of top Greeks to find out what they think about the system today, its need for change.

There's a feature too on the present day veterans attending school on the G.I. Bill along with short stories on the faculty bowling league and bumper stickers.

In the back is the ballot for the Union board of trustees. If you're a paid alumni member, you're eligible to vote, and we hope you will. They're the people who make the policy decisions about the Union.

Next issue we bring you the nationally prepared Moonshooter article on alumni and their faith in their colleges or universities, or their lack of faith.—CBR
