4 THE ENERGY CENTER

From the outset University officials have known that they had a good thing going in the new Energy Center. But even the most optimistic could not have anticipated the response which has transformed a $30 million building into a $65 million campus-wide bonanza by CAROL J. BURR

9 THE SAXON STORY

Bill D. Saxon is not an oil-rich Texan; he's an oil-rich Oklahoman who lives in Texas. He also is the most down-to-earth, charming, complex, hard-driving small town boy who ever gave his alma mater $30 million. No one is immune to the Saxon brand of sincerity By MARY LYLE WEEKS

16 TIME TO ASSESS THE BANOWSKY YEARS

Anniversaries are ready-made opportunities to review the accomplishments of the past and set priorities for the future. This fall Bill Banowsky barely took time to mark the end of three fast-paced years at OU before setting his sights on the targets for Chapter Four By CAROL J. BURR

18 THE TROUBLE WITH CAFFEINE

Can't get going without the morning coffee? Kirby Gilliland understands the problem, but he also knows that caffeine consumers may be in more trouble than they realize. The OU psychologist's studies are revealing and more than a little disturbing By DIANNE BYSTROM

21 IRELAND: HISTORY'S POLITICAL PRISONER

To understand what is going on in Ireland, it helps to be Irish. Short of that, you can listen to an Irishman who is an authority on his country's bewildering history. Such an expert visited OU for the SLEP series and left behind an article for Sooner Magazine By F. S. L. LYONS

26 THE PHYSICIAN ASSISTANT

Small communities seem destined to be medically understaffed no matter how many physicians medical schools produce. Physician assistants could be part of the answer, but these new health care professionals are struggling for acceptance by their medical colleagues By RICHARD GREEN

ON THE COVER

Drilling rigs, symbolic of Oklahoma's history, once again are dominating the landscape. (See story on Page 4.) Photographer Mike McMillon shot this aerial view of Helmerich & Payne Drilling Company rigs nine miles south of Weatherford. Lake Crowder is in the background.

Sooner Magazine is published quarterly in April, July, October and January by the University of Oklahoma Foundation, Inc., with private funds at no cost to the taxpayers of the State of Oklahoma. The magazine is printed by the Transcript Press, Norman, Oklahoma, intended primarily for private donors to the University of Oklahoma and life members of the University of Oklahoma Alumni Association.

Opinions expressed are those of the author and do not reflect the official position of the University of Oklahoma or of the University of Oklahoma Foundation, Inc.

Address all inquiries and changes of address to the Editor, 660 Parrington Oval, Room 214, Norman, OK 73019. Letters-to-the-editor must be signed. Letters not intended for publication should be so marked.
