4 THE CAREYS

For the past dozen years two internationally famed opera singers have called the University of Oklahoma home. On campus they usually are considered a team, but Carol and Tom are very different personalities.

10 THE AMERICAN WORK ETHIC

The basic ingredient in the United States' economic health and well-being has undergone some radical changes in this century, a situation which is under investigation by University business management researchers.

15 THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO STEVE HILL

The star of the Oklahoma Daily staff this year has been an editorial cartoonist with a distinctive flair for caricature who mixes humor and message to cut right to the heart of the issue, whether local or national.

19 END OF AN ODYSSEY

A scruffy looking little volume that has been knocking around Europe for 320 years has finally come to rest in Norman, Oklahoma, as the 50,000th addition to the University's famed History of Science Collections.

21 WHAT DO WRITERS DO?

Freshman English composition has been an ordeal to be endured but not enjoyed by either student or teacher. OU's Michael Flanigan is out to change all that in the first of two articles on the grand old art of writing.

26 DAME EVA OF OKLAHOMA

The British went all out this spring to celebrate the 90th birthday of their beloved prima donna, Dame Eva Turner. Few of them knew at the time, however, that this noble lady is only on loan from her true home, Oklahoma.

28 IT'S A SMALL WORLD AFTER ALL

OU's president calls them a cultural pot of gold, a bridge between countries. They are hard working, dedicated, interesting and full of fun. But international students also can be lonely, bewildered and misunderstood.

ON THE COVER
