4 THE MYSTERY OF THE COPPER SCROLL

For years the story of temple treasure hidden in the desert was discounted as fantasy. Then high technology and the expertise of eminent Near East scholar P. Kyle McCarter Jr. shed a whole new light on the scroll's message.

10 SOONER SATURDAY

On a November Saturday, more than 600 high school seniors and college transfer students joined brand-new president David Boren in accepting an invitation from the University of Oklahoma to sample college life Sooner style.

14 JUST ONE OF THE BOYS FROM PITTSBURGH COUNTY

Julian Rothbaum's alma mater has honored him in every way imaginable, but he is proudest of the awards he has established for others, most bearing his name and those of two old political allies and friends from Little Dixie.

17 A MOST AUSPICIOUS OCCASION

The Carl Albert Award is not merely a check and wall plaque. Its recipients soon learn they have made a commitment to be the best they can be and to maintain their ties with the University, where their academic journey began.

22 THE WIT OF GEORGE LYNN CROSS

In another "Treasure from the Archives," David Levy shares excerpts from the president emeritus' speeches that reveal the humor for which the scholarly botanist-turned-administrator became known over a 25-year tenure.

27 SOONER POLO RETURNS

A small group of determined students is struggling to revive a long-dormant OU athletic tradition. Yes, long before Ralph Lauren hijacked the sport, the University of Oklahoma fielded some of the finest polo teams in the country.
