ON THE COVER

Cameras clicked and pencils flew as a host of University friends joined OU students and the media to hear the blue-ribbon slate of foreign policy experts in Norman for the International Programs Center's second annual conference. Photo strips from top to bottom feature George Mitchell with David Boren; Brent Scowcroft and Lawrence Eagleburger; Margaret Thatcher; Edward Perkins, Phyllis Oakley and Paul Pillar; Boren and Thatcher; and Paul Kennedy. Page 6.

6 FACING A FRAGILE AND DANGEROUS WORLD

Former British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher headlined a stellar schedule of foreign policy gurus who addressed capacity crowds at the OU conference, "Preparing America's Foreign Policy for the 21st Century."

14 THE POWER OF IDEAS

Oklahoma Scholar-Leadership Enrichment Program directors teamed with a cable-access host/professor to create a public television program that is bringing visiting public figures to a statewide viewing audience.

18 THE WAR AGAINST CANCER

As the search for more effective cancer treatment proceeds, Oklahomans deserve access to the best, nationally recognized protocols available, the goal of a nationally prominent cancer geneticist and his OUHSC colleagues.

22 SO MANY INTERESTS, SO LITTLE TIME

David Dary is not a shy man. He will challenge standards of journalists, historians and educators, take decisive, even abrasive action to upgrade the OU school he directs—then retreat to his own private wildlife refuge.

27 WALKING THE WALK, TALKING THE TALK

The OU Visitor Center tapped a wealth of student/faculty/staff talent to produce a self-guided, audio walking tour of the Norman campus featuring wonderful music and narration as entertaining as it is informative.
