

Ty Russell/OU Athletics Media Relations

PROMOTING A POSITIVE PEACE – OU women's basketball head coach Sherri Coale, center, is accustomed to winning on the court, but winning the inaugural United Nations NGO Positive Peace Award for her contributions to the community, locally and internationally, was a unique experience, one she quickly credited to her team and her staff. The presentation of the award was the pre-game feature of the OU-Kansas State game on January 12. Flanking the coach are Rotary International District Governor Glenda Thomas, left; Adam Barnett of Norman's Journey Church, who nominated Coale; and OU Vice President of Intercollegiate Athletics Joe Castiglione.