Volume 34 ■ Number 3

CONTENTS

4 NATIVE AMERICAN ART RETURNS TO ITS ROOTS

The success of the Kiowa Five notwithstanding, it took the tenacious Mary Jo Watson most of her career to establish her specialty as a legitimate focus for art and art history.

11 ONLINE IN REAL TIME

Enrolled as an OU student or not, the Janux Interactive Learning Community is an open software platform available to anyone, anytime with an internet connection.

16 SPRINGTIME IS TROPHY TIME

The towering President's Trophy represents competition in academics, campus activities, community service and volunteerism, and multi-cultural interaction and diversity.

20 AT THE MIGRATORY CROSSROADS

There is no better place than the University of Oklahoma to study bird migration and analyze what this fascinating phenomenon tells scientists about our environment.

25 ALL IN THE FAMILY

Terry West began her medical education just one year behind her mother, Leann Smith. Now both are doctors, continuing their training at the OU College of Medicine.

28 THE BUSINESS SIDE OF PHARMACY

Students who see themselves becoming independent pharmacists find that they will need a set of skills not normally associated with their health-centered profession.
