“THE AMAZING TRAVELS OF GEORGE AND CECELIA McGHEE” – The fascinating contents of the boxes and crates arriving at the University of Oklahoma in February represented two lifetimes full of the wonderful wanderings throughout the world by the late distinguished U.S. ambassador and his equally adventurous wife. Their art, artifacts, fossils, minerals and personal papers now reside in OU’s Youngblood Energy Library, the Sam Noble Oklahoma Museum of Natural History, the Fred Jones Jr. Museum of Art and especially the Western History Collections in Monnet Hall, where a sampling of the treasures will be on exhibit through the fall semester. Above, Stephanie Allen, collection manager of ethnology at the SNOMNH looks through the crates at the McGhees’ Farmers Delight Plantation in Virginia. Article on Page 13.
