WINTER 2015

Volume 35 ■ Number 2

CONTENTS

4 THE WOMEN IN THE BOATS

OU's newest sport is intercollegiate athletics' oldest—rowing. For three years the women's team has been making giant strides under extremely trying conditions.

9 A TRIBUTE TO ACADEMIC ALL-STARS

Priority 1 and 1A: creating a walkable campus and recognizing academic superstars—both purposes being accomplished with creation of the new Scholars Walk.

12 FINDING COMMON GROUND

An exchange program with Jerusalem's Haruv Institute is providing social work graduate students at OU-Tulsa with shared experiences in dealing with cases of child abuse.

16 SOONERVISION

The sports broadcasting industry is finding a talented pool of directors, producers and engineers among students who staff the in-house video production arm of the Athletics Department.

22 PLAYING WITH FIRE

Tucked away on the south campus is the School of Art's ceramics lab, where annually on Fuego Friday faculty and students demonstrate the ancient art of kiln-firing.

27 A COMMANDING PRESENCE IN ENGINEERING

Retired Air Force Maj. Gen. Jerry Holmes teaches leadership in the College of Engineering, where both the class and the general are on the very top of students' popularity polls.
