- 4 CORONAVIRUS 101 With the return of in-person instruction and on-campus living this fall, the University of Oklahoma adapts to a new normal of higher education in the midst of the COVID-19 pandemic.
- 10 HEART OF A DRAGON When a catastrophic motorcycle accident threatened to take the life of top OU radar researcher Caleb Fulton, family and friends on two campuses said, “Not on our watch.”
- 17 THE SOUL OF A POET The son of migrant workers, OU alumnus Tomás Rivera used the power and beauty of language to tell stories of the people he knew and became a pioneering voice for Chicano literature.
- 25 THE RETURN OF FOOTBALL With capacity limited to 25% in stadiums and cardboard cutouts in the stands, the Big 12 provides the closest thing to normal for college towns that are ready for something to cheer.
