Jean Brooks, young daughter of Dr Frank G. Brooks, February 11, '31. Doctor Brooks was a graduate student here receiving his M. S. degree in '22.

YEAR BY YEAR

1905

Four Sooner football stars who were brothers met in family reunion at Norman during the Christmas holidays. They are Dr Chester Reeds, '05 arts-sc., of New York City; Clarence Reeds, '05 arts-sc., of Canyon, Texas; Claude E. Reeds, '14 arts-sc., (and Mrs Luella Bretch Reeds, '14 arts-sc.) of Edmond, and Artie Reeds, '10 arts-sc., of Oklahoma City. They were guests of the parents, Mr and Mrs A. M. Reeds of Norman.

Dr Chester Reeds, '05 arts-sc., curator of geology and invertebrate paleontology in the American Museum of Natural History at New York, while attending the meeting of the Geological Society of America in Tulsa late in December, commended that Tulsa continue the development of the Mohawk park geological museum, already under way. "The important thing is to keep your display local," he remarked. "We do that even with the national scope of our display in New York. We find that our visitors are still interested in the fact that the Hackensack meadows in New Jersey where most of our mosquitos come from are really an old glacial lake.

1911

Guidance and adaptation are stressed in the modern school, rather than book knowledge, Dr Frank A. Balyeat, '11 arts-sc., M. A., '18, of the college of education of the university, told the South Oklahoma City Kiwanis club December 23.

1915

Lewis R. Morris, '15 arts-sc., '15 law, M. A. '17, Oklahoma county attorney, has an effective antidote for averting legal settlement of personal disputes. Two men appeared in his office some days ago preparatory to filing assault and battery charges against each other following a fist fight. Declared Mr Morris: "I'm going to tell you something I've discovered in my practice as a lawyer. When two gentlemen fight, there are no charges. When a gentleman and a so-and-so fight, the so-and-so always insists on dragging the case through the courts." No charges were filed.

1920

Wilbur J. Holleman, '20 law, former Oklahoma Rhodes scholar and now attorney at Tulsa, was one of the speakers at the annual meeting of the Oklahoma State Bar association in Tulsa December 29.

Floyd E. Waterfield, jr., '20 eng., of Muskogee, addressed the Norman chapter of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers December 8.

Lowell J. Ridings, '20 geol., formerly chief geologist for the Sinclair Oil Co. in Mexico, is now engaged in mining operations "on his own" in Mexico.

1921

Dr George Borecky, '21 sc., med. '23, of Oklahoma City, assistant chairman of the Oklahoma Narcotic Education association, explained the educational program of the association at a meeting December 31 in Oklahoma City.

1923

Thomas J. Lee, '23 arts-sc., who has spent the last two years at Baku, Russia, as consulting engineer representing E. B. Badger and Sons of Boston, visited his brother Josh Lee, '17 arts-sc., head of the public speaking department of the university, in December. Mr Lee declared that there was little danger of overturn of the soviet regime as long as it maintains its present military strength and sustains the devotion of the communist party. The five-year plan is as successful as any such plan could be in a nation as backward industrially as Russia. There are many people in a condition of starvation, despite the efforts of the communists to give employment to everyone. "A five year plan can only scratch the surface of the many things to be done before Russia is industrialized," Mr Lee found. "Living conditions in the whole of Russia are deplorable, worse than anywhere in Europe."

Lynn Riggs, ex '23, reviewed Singing Cowboy: A Book of Western Songs, for The Nation December 16.

1924

Lee Cromwell, '24 journ., has continued in journalism, but from the printer's standpoint. He is the owner of the Cromwell Press, Inc., at Enid, Oklahoma, Enid, Lee declares, did not know the depression was on until last year when wheat prices did a toboggan.

1925

Foster Harris, '25 arts-sc., and Mrs. Jewel Pruitt Harris, ex '26, Des Moines Register, 2803 Ingersoll, Box 863, DesMoines, Iowa. Information from Roy Heffner, '16, Norman.

1926

John Weidman, '26 arts-sc., M. A., '28, of Norman, is working on his doctor of philosophy degree at the University of Wisconsin.

Dr Mark Marks, B. S. in '26, M. D. in '28, who formerly had his own medical practice in Tulsa, is now in the Medical Arts building, Kansas City, Missouri.

1927

Person Woodall, '27 law, formerly president of the Norman Sooner club, and county attorney of Cleveland county, was named honorary chairman of the convention committee of the Oklahoma League of Young Democrats.

1928

John C. Glaze, '28 eng., who is connected with the American Telephone and Telegraph company at St. Louis, Missouri, will conduct a class in radio at Beaumont high school in St. Louis.

Tully Watson, '28 sc., is now a member of the physics department of the University of Illinois.

Victor Holt, '28 bus., all American basketball, is a member of the Oklahoma City Missouri Valley basketball team this year. With him are Bruce Drake, '29 phys. ed., Lawrence Meyer, '31 arts-sc., and Harry Pinkerton, ex '28.

W. Karl Ritter, '28 arts-sc., '29 eng., engineer in the aeronautical laboratory at Langley Field, Hampton, Virginia, visited his parents, Mr and Mrs H. F. Ritter of Norman, during the Christmas holidays.

John C. Glaze, '28 eng., of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. at St. Louis, is to conduct a class in radio at the Beaumont high school in St. Louis.

1929

Louise Nell Glaze, '29 fine arts, as teacher of the consolidated Terrel-Fleetwood school, is filling the combined positions her mother held 20 years ago and her grandmother Mrs Thomas C. Glaze, held 40 years ago. Mrs Glaze was Fleetwood's teacher in 1911 and Grandmother Glaze was conducting a subscription school at Fleetwood in 1891.

Everett F. Drumright, '29 bus., of Drumright, has been named vice consul at Hankow, China. He was formerly vice-consul at Juarez, Mexico. He sailed for his new post January 4.

Sam Binkley, '29 sc. of Oklahoma City, and now a student in the Harvard medical school, has been named co-editor of the Harvard medical school yearbook.

1930

Inez Ballard, '30 journ., is a reporter for the Wichita Eagle, Wichita, Kansas.

ZOOLOGY LETTER

Editor's Note: Dr. A. Richards and his fellow members of the zoology department send an annual letter to all graduates and former students of the department. This, decorated by a member of the department, is a cheerful reminder of progress made by the department, newsy notes of faculty and students. We are excerpting parts of it, because we think the idea is one which other departments of the university could well copy. Our brief extract does not do justice to the Zoolog but if it calls it to the attention of other departments, we are happy.

Graduate students in the Zoology department of the university are digging out scientific facts in a number of interesting studies, G. Olin Rulon, graduate assistant from Gallatin, Missouri, is working on chemical stimulation of growth. H. Noel Ferguson, graduate assistant, Warsaw, Missouri, is studying spermatogenesis in water snakes. Sadie Mahon, Fort Worth, Texas, and Ruth A. Holzapfel, graduate assistants, are working on Ph. D. degrees. Babbette L. Shumacker, '31 arts-sc., Louisiana state university, has a fellowship and is working on the mitotic index of Whitefish eggs. Marion L. Palm, Galesburg, Illinois, is technician and part time graduate student. Leonard Strickland, West Virginia university, B. S., '30, and Roy W. Jones, associate professor of biology at Central State Teachers college at Edmond, are students.

Dr. A. Richards, Dr and Mrs A. O. Weese, Dr A. I. Ortenburger, Miss Ruth Holzapfel and Miss Babbette Shumacker attended the meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science at New Orleans during the Christmas holidays. George A. Moore, Stillwater, presented his thesis, worked out in the department of Zoology at the university on, "The Germ Cells in the Developing Gonad of the Trout."

Increased growth of the Zoological library results in about 2,000 books, subscriptions to fifty zoological journals and approximately forty five exchanges. Recent books, the more important journals and separates are kept on the reference library shelves.

Sigma Xi and Phi Sigma, national scientific fraternities, are cooperating to bring Dr W. G. Waterman of the Department of Botany, Northwestern University, here for a lecture, January 8. Sigma Xi recently elected to membership the following zoology students, Sadie Mahon, Ray Porter, Nell Guthrie, George Moore, Celeste Whaley Taft, Herbert E. Warfel, Ruby Northup Macy, and Mildred A. Groscurth.

Dr Ralph D. Bird, assistant professor of zoology, was on leave the first semester, at Vernon, British Columbia, where he served as entomologist for the Canadian government.

Owen Anderson, B. A. '28, M. S. '29 and Mrs Elizabeth Upshaw Anderson, B. S. '28 are living in Minneapolis. Mr Owen is a graduate assistant in the University of Minnesota, working toward a doctorate in Physics, and Mrs Anderson teaches biology in the Minneapolis high schools.

SWISS JOURNEY

didn't begin to become strong until about noon so I made good time as far as Rheinlan, in France, reaching there at 11, German time, or 10 according to French time. I spent an hour and twenty minutes in this little, dung-reeking town. It seemed that since the wheel wasn't mine I would have to deposit 151.88 francs as reckoned from the weight and estimated value of things, plus forty centimes for the papers, plus three francs sixty centimes for permission to "circulate" in France for three months. All I had with me was thirty-two Swiss francs and two mark five pfennig and the customs wouldn't accept anything but French money; they told me this after about twenty minutes inspection of the wheel and of my passport. For the same reason that this place was so difficult to get through, namely because it is a seldom crossed frontier place, the donanier helped me find a store that would change my money. We finally found a place, where I received 160 French francs for thirty-two Swiss, which is a very good exchange. Then we went back about the half-mile to his office where the officer stewed over his notes, books and form-sheets until it was 11:20 French time. I bought some bread, wine, and I thought, I had some sausage or liver-wurst in my sack. I went on for about twenty of the thirty-five kilometres to Strassburg; and although there were no hills, the north wind had come up so it was rather slow going.

I stopped at a nice grassy place to eat lunch and when I unpacked my sack I discovered that I must have left the liverwurst in my room in Emmendingen. So after the proper words, I started out again, and stopped at the next village to buy some Frankfurter-wurst which is almost like boloney (no matter how thin you slice it . . . you know), and finally had a nice lunch. I've got so that I can hardly pass a butcher shop without wanting to buy some sausage or cheese. Tonight, however, I had a nice steak with potatoes, salad and beer. I reached Strassburg at about 2:30, after going through numerous Alsatian villages, which surpass I think the German and Swiss villages in dirty kids and dunginess. The pervading odor for the last three days has been that of dung. The German side was prettier with its vineyards; the French side has only an interurban track, a canal and sugar beet fields. I know now that the beets are sugar beets. There are numerous refineries in the region. In Strassburg which must be around several hundred thousand, I saw the sixteenth century cathedral, various public buildings, the university, where there is a monument to Pasteur, several parks and the gas works. Since the French customs' cashier's offices closed at five, French time, I went on so I could redeem my 151.88 francs, arriving here just at dark. Tomorrow I am going first to Offenburg and then down on to Basel, on the German side. With the wind at my back as it should be if it is consistent, I hope to reach Basel with the wheel and from there take the train to Zürich, getting home some time Sunday. I think I'll buy some liniment or alcohol tonight for my right knee is a little stiff. . . .

NORMAN THOMAS

machinery on a large scale. The real choice is between a democratic collectivism of the people and an autocratic collectivism of wealth.

Promising increasing success for his party, Mr Thomas announced that a precinct-by-precinct organization of socialists would be perfected in every state within the next two years, to compete more effectively with the older parties.

"My great concern," he said, "is not that the capitalist order will prevail but that it will break down before we are ready to carry on."

Nearly a hundred students 'crashed' the supposedly-private meeting of the Why Club, undergraduate forum, after Mr Thomas's main speech in the evening to hear his informal discussion of military training and the League of Industrial Democracy.

Compulsory drill in colleges he denounced as a waste of government money, a propaganda instrument for militarism and an unwarranted violation of academic
