Who's Who On the Campus

The president this year of the Women's Athletic association at the University is Marion Priddy, a senior, and perhaps the most versatile sportswoman enrolled in school.

As well as a fine leader of the W.A.A., Marion is a good student and has excelled in a number of sports activities. Last year, she was a member of the all-University basketball team, the all-University hockey team, the all-University track team and was the all-University pingpong champion.

Last year was Marion's first year at the University, having come here as a junior from the Oklahoma College for Women at Chickasha.

Since Ida Carter and Kathryn Short, all-around stars of the women's physical education department, graduated last June, Marion remains as the most versatile athlete in the department. The Carter-Short combination was famous for several years for its excellence in all branches of women's athletics. The two won most of the intramural meets almost single handed, Miss Carter excelling in swimming and Miss Short showing great talent in every branch of sport.

The W.A.A. is open to all University women who are interested in sports. Within the Women's Athletic association are a number of clubs that give special attention to particular branches of sports. Among these clubs are the Red Cross Life Saving corps, the Racket club, the Dusty Travelers, Orchesis dance club, the Rifle club, the Ducks club, the Timber Cruisers and the Archery club.

Members of all the groups are members of the W.A.A. and select the officers of the large governing body.
