YEAR BY YEAR

1911

Dr. E. E. Dale, '11as, head of the University department of history, was a special member of the University of Nebraska, Lincoln, faculty during the past summer session.

1912

W. B. Robinson, '12ex, is now with the legal department of the Home Owner's Loan Corporation in Washington, D. C. He has been practicing law in Carlsbad, New Mexico.

1916

Dr. W. H. Miles, '16bs, '18med, appeared in the daily column, "Brass Collars," recently in The Daily Oklahoman. The short biographical sketch of the outstanding Oklahoma City physician follows:

"Dr. W. H. Miles—the city's health director—a doc who really doesn't like apples—not because they're reported to keep the medical fraternity away—he juts doesn't like them anyhow—but he does like dancing—and drilling.

His relish for drill teams, which furnish his chief recreation, is revealed in his prize winning national guard drill unit—and his membership in the India Shrine patrol—is an Iowan—who came to Oklahoma early—was a paper boy—worked his way through the University of Oklahoma—met his wife-to-be in Norman.

"Talks rapidly—uses his fast talk professionally—to divert his child patients with rapid fire speech—until they find the splinter's out before they have time to cry—is fondest of child health work—makes civic club speeches day after day—largely about children's health.

"Perfect comfort to him is—a pair of slippers—a pipe—comfy chair—radio going—and a magazine—is an inveterate smoker—a captain in the medical national guard medical corps—subscriber to many scientific journals—a history devotee—a bridge addict—and the father of two sons, four and seven, who sold the city manager's wife weeds for spinach."

1917

J. Roy Orr, '17law, Chickasha, is a special investigator for the public works administration with headquarters in Boston. Orr formerly was assistant attorney general of Oklahoma. He was a friend, while he was on the campus, of Jed Johnson, '15ex, Democratic representative to Congress. Johnson recommended Orr for the appointment.

1918

Earl Tankersley, '18ex, Oklahoma City, also was the subject of a short biographical sketch in the column, "Brass Collars," which appears in the Daily Oklahoman. The sketch said of Tankersley:

"Few have been handed a heftier title by the New Deal than Earl Tankersley... he's the supervisor of the western Oklahoma branch of the reconditioning division of the Home Owners Loan corporation. As such he prefaces most remarks with "Under the present set-up—" ... he's not quite as red haired as his secretary... likes his Sox to match his tie if they don't match his shirt... mumbles... has worked for two people only, himself and Uncle Sam. Will answer to the name "Tank" but won't explain it... was studying law at Norman when the bugle blared... came back to join his brother, red headed Dan Tankersley, in the construction business... has built things all over the state. Was born at Norman in 1894... and hasn't missed an open season on prairie chicken."

1921

Alumni, faculty members and students of the University were shocked and grieved to hear of the death of Henry Wooten, '21as Chickasha, a member of the University athletic council, late in July.

That his young son was also a victim of a fishing accident in Colorado made the news doubly tragic. Following is the fine tribute paid to the popular member of the Chickasha Cotton Oil Mill company by the Chickasha Express:

"Early Monday morning solemn lips were repeating the same message in business houses, offices, on the streets and in homes throughout the city—The bodies of Henry Wooten and his son, Junior, have been found in the Conejos river."

"First thoughts were of the wife and children who had been deprived of love and care, the bitter sorrow and grief affecting Mr. Woodson's parents, his two brothers and the four sisters.

One could but imagine the shadow of gloom enshrouding the little mountain fishing lodge where family and friends kept that grim vigil Sunday night while searchers hunted for the missing father and son.

"Aside from that thought of family and friends, came the realization that death had unsparingly snuffed out the life of one of Chickasha's prominent young business men and a valuable citizen. Though still a young man, Mr. Wooten had risen rapidly in the business world and he faced a brilliant future. It was little more than a week ago that he was named a director in the Oklahoma National bank, another step in his business career and one that offered him greater opportunity for service to the community and business associates.

"In the civic and social life of the city he had played an unusually active part for a young man and had been further marked as a leader. Mr. Wooten had served as president of the Rotary club, the Country club and the Black Beaver Boy Scout council. Further evidence of his public spiritedness was seen in his participation in Chamber of Commerce activities, his church and the University of Oklahoma alumni association. He felt keenly a sense of duty to his fellow man, to his community and to those institutions with which he had identified himself. He was an enthusiastic worker in all of these interests.

"With his family and friends, a city feels keenly the loss in Mr. Wooten's untimely death. The heritage he leaves those who were near and dear to him is a splendid one, marked by its devotion and fine example."

1922

Bryan Griffin, 22as, Lawton high school football coach, held a camp in the Wichita mountains early in September for his gridiron squad. He is expecting a fairly strong team this year.

Fisher Muldrow, '22ex, whose voice for the last three years has been heard over the microphone at Sooner football games, is now living in Ardmore where he is associated with the Oklahoma Gas and Electric company. Fisher and Mrs. Muldrow and their two-year-old daughter, Ann, moved to Ardmore from Oklahoma City, early in the summer.

1924

Reed Collier, '24as, dean of the Holdenville junior college faculty and a member of the high school staff, is serving his first term as a member of the Holdenville city council. He has been on the Holdenville faculty for ten years but never ran for a public office until this year.

1925

Charles Green, '25as, has been appointed as assistant professor and acting head of the department of Public Speaking at the University.

1926

Richard Pendleton, '26law, Cleveland county judge, was one of more than 150 attorneys selected to assist in preparing legal decisions for the state supreme court. More than two thousand cases will be cleared by the special group of attorneys. The plan was proposed by Chief Justice Fletcher Riley, '17as.

1927

Earl Pruitt, '27as, Jefferson county attorney, has been appointed assistant federal attorney and will have charge of internal revenue cases at the federal court in Muskogee. Pruitt was a member of the University debate team before graduation and has won considerable recognition during his two years as county attorney.

1928

Helen Eades, '28he, is a member of the University of Illinois faculty. She is in charge of classes concerned with home decorations and related arts.

Kieran Morrison, '28as, formerly editor of the Lexington Sun, is working for the state highway department in Wisconsin. He is stationed in Madison and is graduate manager of the Sigma Chi house at the University of Wisconsin.

1929

Mart Brown, '29law, has resigned as assistant county attorney, Oklahoma County, to enter private practice of law.

Elizabeth Cox, '29as, '31law, has been added to the faculty staff of Oklahoma A. and M. College, Stillwater, for the coming year. She has been a practicing attorney in Norman and one of the law school's outstanding women lawyers. During the recent political campaign she was assistant campaign manager for James E. Berry, Democratic nominee for lieutenant governor.

1931

Paul John, '31as, is a member of the Walters golf team that made a habit this summer of trimming town teams throughout the southern part of the state. Twenty golfers from Walters played on the team that defeated Lawton, 37 to 19, late in the season. Another Sooner on the Walters club was Jim Nance, '33ex. John is news and sports editor for the Walters Herald.

Mrs. Carol Constant Pim, '31drama, and Mrs. Mary Ann Bates Bond, '31ex, both of New York City, were entertained at numerous parties throughout Oklahoma when they returned for an extensive visit this summer. Mrs. Pim formerly lived in Ponca City and Mrs. Bond is a former resident of Oklahoma City. The former played the leading role in the prize winning three-act drama, "Black-Jack Davy," by Richard Mansfield Dickinson, Tulsa, when it was presented four years ago by the University Playhouse.

Jim Blanton, '31as, '31law, Pauls Valley attorney, was a star third baseman on the Pauls Valley softball team that holds the championship of McClain county. Mrs. Jane Bowman Blanton, '30he, was one of the team's staunchest supporters.

Cliff Lane, '31eng, '33M.S., and Mrs. Jane Field Lane, '31as, are living in Long Beach, California, where he is an architect.

1932

Vic Holman, '32as, has joined the staff at the Bank of Frederick. Previously, he worked at the First National Bank of Guthrie, the Bank of Crescent and the Liberty National Bank of Oklahoma City.

1933

Bob Webb, '33ex, who contributed leading stories to the July and August issues of Space, creative monthly published at Norman by Dr. B. A. Botkin, University faculty member, was in charge of educational activities at a camp for transient youths in south Texas during the summer. Webb, who has been writing for magazines as he "tramps" the country for the past year, has gone to Madison, Wisconsin, where he may stay for the coming year.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hanna of the 1933 class are living at Madison, Wisconsin. Hanna is on the research staff of the economics department at the University of Wisconsin and Mrs. Hanna is literary editor and writes a column in the Madison Journal.

Camilo Gutierrez, '33eng, Bogota, Colombia, South America, is working for the Carter Oil company in Ponca City. He previously was stationed at Carter Nine but was transferred when the division office was moved to Ponca City.

John B. Turner, '33M.Ed, although only 38 years old, will start his nineteenth year as a teacher at Northwestern State Teachers college, Alva.

Milo O. Redmund, '33ex, a graduate student during the summer, has been named principal of Guthrie high school.

Ervin Lewis, '33as, has accepted a position as announcer and continuity writer for station KTLU, Tulsa. Lewis has been on the editorial staff of the Carlsbad Current-Argus, Carlsbad, New Mexico, for the past year.

Angus McDonald, '33as, '34M.A., has been elected to the high school faculty at Konawa. He will teach history. McDonald completed work on a master's thesis during the past summer session and since has published several articles on the study he completed. It was concerned with the creation and administration of NRA codes. Mrs. Frances Lee McDonald, '31as, and their young son, James Angus, have accompanied him to Konawa.

Ray Parr, '33as, has been added to the editorial staff of the Oklahoma City Times. Parr was enrolled at the University last year as a graduate student. Three years ago he wrote the popular humor column, "Below Parr," in the Oklahoma Daily.

William L. Dougherty, '33ed, who was a teacher last year at Keifer, has been elected to the Sapulpa high school faculty. He will be in charge of instruction in physics and general science.

1934

Dr. Charles M. O'Leary, '34med, has been selected as one of twenty young doctors for service as surgical interne in the Henry Ford Hospital, Detroit. Dr. O'Leary made the highest grade of the six hundred young medical graduates in all parts of the nation who took the competitive examination.

Herman Ziemer, '34fa, has accepted the position of band director and teacher in the Medford schools. Mrs. Ziemer formerly was Miss Floranna Ruhl, '32fa.

BIRTHS

Albert Nance, '25as, and Mrs. Nance, a son, Thomas Jefferson, June 25. Home, Clinton. Mrs. Rita Higgins Lottinville, '28as, and Savoie Lottinville, '29as, a daughter, Marie, August 31. Home, Norman.

Herbert K. Hyde, '18ex, and Mrs. Hyde, twins, Patrick Hurley and Helen Kathryn, July 8. Home, Oklahoma City.

mark instead of inside the 20-yard line, the general admission section last year.

Condition of the Field

If a rain storm blows up on the day of a game, the fan should don his rubbers and slicker and come on anyway. Paved and graveled highways assure spectators a hard-surfaced road from their home to Owen field and return.

But best of all is that crackerjack sanded field Coach Lewie Hardage has built at Norman. Last year it rained nearly an inch the night before the Homecoming game with Kansas yet next day the game was sensationally played with the players holding their feet beautifully as the Sooners scored three touchdowns and won decisively by 20 to 0, a feat they could never have achieved on the average muddy field. The field has been resanded this summer and no matter how great the rain, will be fast. So don't let the rain keep you home.

Prospects

We'll try and give you the facts and let you draw your own conclusions.

The team's kicking game can't be as strong as it was last year due to loss of Bob Dunlap, finest quick-kicker ever developed at Soonerland and ranking close to Claude Reeds and Ram Morrison as greatest Sooner punter of all time. Dunlap was also a good passer and although the team's aerial game last year was poor, it wasn't Dunlap's fault. He threw a mean pass as his feat of single-handed chucking 832 yards of completed flips in 1932 proves. So the Sooner kicking and passing apparently will be poorer this fall.

The quarterbacking, with Pat Page, jr., and Karey Fuqua available, should be better. Page, son of the former Indiana and Chicago coach, is stacking up as a real quarterback find, due to lifetime training by his father. Besides he has a year's experience on the Chicago university varsity. Fuqua, smart field general of Lawton's great team of 1931, has had a year's experience with the Sooners and since he already is a fine blocker and tackler, is bound to see service. Art Pansze may also be used some at this position.

Coach Hardage himself has given the biggest hope for an improved team this year.

"We spent last year developing our sophomore material," he recently asserted, "Now we have 16 juniors and 6 seniors ready to go and are ready to take up advanced football, stuff we didn't dare attempt with green sophomores last fall."

However, lots of things can happen between now and Thanksgiving day, end of the 1934 season. The schedule is very hard and it is only reasonable to suppose that somewhere along its course the Sooners will encounter an "off" day and the opponents "on" days that often spell the difference between victory and defeat. Injuries, bad luck, and ineligibility could very easily take their toll. Also there's no getting around the fact that there are bound to be more powerful teams on the schedule than Oklahoma, any one of which may be capable of defeating the Sooners strictly on the merits of the two teams.

Speaking generally, the squad is experienced and well-stocked with reserves and if it can surmount the tackle obstacle should be able to put up a sharp battle in every game and win its share of them.

Among the better-known sophomores available this fall are:

Ends, Harry Allen, Tulsa; Jay Thomas, Seminole; Ralph Brown, Hobart.

Tackles, Ferd Ellsworth, El Reno; "Hoss" Milam, Chelsea.

Guards, Connie Aherns, Oklahoma City; Mike Montgomery, Lawton; Bill Frickett, Oklahoma City; Bob Stephens, Oklahoma City.

Centers, Mickey Parks, Shawnee; Red Conkright, Tulsa.

Tailbacks, Joe Meyer, Hot Springs, Ark.; K. A. Cox, Muskogee; Mack Boring, Fort Worth, Tex.; Jelly Ragan, St. Louis.

The 21 letter men eligible to return are:

Ends, John Miskovsky, Jeff Coker, Jack Harris, Mutt Miller.

Tackles, Cash Gentry, Dub Wheeler, Ken Little, George Parrish, Dewey Tennyson.

Guards, Red Stacy, Wesley Beck, Clay Chiles, Harry Ellis.

Center, Morris McDannald.

Blocking Backs, Beede Long, Ben Poyner, Art Pansze, Rob Robison, Karey Fuqua.

Tailbacks, Nig Robertson, Raleigh Francis, Delmar Steinbock.

Outstanding squadmen back from last year are: Bill Allen, blocking back; Dodo Walters, guard; James Monnett, tackle; Delbert Haynes, tailback.
