Who's Who On the Campus

Any guess as to what profession J. Bruce Wiley will follow when he is graduated from the University this year would naturally be a long shot, so diversified have his interests been and so successful has he been in many fields.

By training, he will be an electrical engineer, graduating from the engineering college with honors: three years on St. Pat's council, four active years in the Engineering club and a national officer of Tau Omega, aeronautical fraternity.

Through his interest in electricity,

Wiley, whose home is in Norman, became active on the technical staff of WNAD, University radio station. His resonant deep voice took him into announcing activities and his proficiency at tinkering with gadgets led to his appointment this year as sound director of the University station.

He has played in numerous radio dramas and his activities in this field influenced him to try his hand at dramatic writing. Last year, he was one of the ten state winners in the state-wide original radio drama contest sponsored by WNAD.

He was the moving figure several years ago in the organization of Phantom Mask, honorary radio drama fraternity, and was president for a year.

During the past summer, Wiley has worked in the Security National bank in Norman and has found the banking business interesting.

For amusement and recreation, he reads Robert Benchley and invents electrical gadgets for household labor saving. He was married last summer to Nona Boyett, also of Norman, who is pianist for WNAD and a talented piano protegee of Prof. C. F. Giard.
