

Business Ad's New Home

These are some interesting interior views of the new building occupied this year by the College of Business Administration. Above is a view of one of the well-lighted stairways.

On the right at the top is shown the main lobby, including some of the well done mural paintings that depict various phases of commerce.

The middle photograph is a view of the Business Administration auditorium which is in demand for many campus gatherings. Below are shown three pieces of symbolic sculpture that are used as ornaments on the building.
