Wherever the postman goes---

THE EDUCATIONAL SERVICES OF THE
UNIVERSITY OF OKLAHOMA ARE AVAILABLE
TO THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE

---Correspondence Study makes the campus state-wide

Through correspondence study, every person in Oklahoma has a chance to share in the benefits of the University. The courses are prepared by members of the faculty of the University, and contain a definite amount of work, equivalent to that done in corresponding courses by students in residence at the University.

The Correspondence Study Department offers:

1. High School courses.
2. College courses for undergraduates.
3. A limited number of courses for graduate students.

The purpose of the correspondence study service is to bring educational opportunities to the entire citizenship of the state. Wherever the postman goes it is possible for this department to serve the earnest student.

The value and effectiveness of correspondence study have been fully demonstrated, and many who cannot attend regular campus classes are taking advantage of this service. The work offered includes 59 high school courses, and 238 college courses of which 77 are graduate courses.

FEES ARE SMALL

The fees charged for correspondence courses cover the actual expenses of giving the work. The fees are as follows:

High school courses, $12.50 a half unit;
College courses, $5 a semester hour.

For credit at the University of Oklahoma for correspondence courses taken from other universities the student must register through this department. The cost ranges from $5 to $8 a semester hour in different universities.

Every county in Oklahoma and 29 states besides Oklahoma are represented in the list of students taking correspondence courses through the University of Oklahoma Extension Division.

The service aims to be generally helpful to all citizens. Many of the courses offered are designed especially to serve the following groups:

High school and college students who are forced to drop out of their classes temporarily;

Teachers who need additional courses to prepare them for their work;

Business and professional men and women who desire better training along special lines;

Men and women from all walks of life who feel the need for more information along certain lines, or who wish to grow and keep abreast of the developments of our times.

And finally, pupils in small high schools who want to take courses not available locally.

HOW TO REGISTER

A bulletin giving list of courses and full information may be obtained by writing to the Secretary of the Correspondence-Study Department, University of Oklahoma, Norman, Okla.

The student who wishes to begin correspondence work may select courses from the bulletin, then fill out the application blank found therein and mail it to the Department.
