

OLIVER BENSON'S
THROUGH THE DIPLOMATIC LOOKING-GLASS

Immediate Origins of the War in Europe

New and revealing—a fast-moving, keenly-written account of the year between Munich and Poland, by an expert in the field of international events. A book that would not have been possible in the last war—but is made possible in this one because diplomats are anxious to assume no war guilt, and because of the world's tremendous gains in communication methods.

READY NOW

256 pages, new maps of Europe, $2.00

Christmas Gift-Books for Oklahomans

H. C. PETERSON'S
PROPAGANDA FOR WAR:

The Campaign Against American
 Neutrality 1914-1917

Do you know propaganda when you see it?
 This book has been a national best-seller since April, and upon it have been based hundreds of editorials and several congressional speeches. The facts of what involved us in the last war, and a warning against the emotional devices which attempt to involve us now.

357 pages, four large printings, $3.00

Mary Hays Marable's and Elaine Boylan's

A Handbook of Oklahoma Writers

A "Who's Who" of the state's writers. Biographical sketches and bibliographies of more than four hundred literary personalities from Oklahoma: Burton Rascoe, Lynn Riggs, George Milburn, Paul Wellman, John Joseph Mathews, Stanley Vestal, and many others, with special lists by town, lists of literary awards, and divisions by special fields of literary endeavor. Invaluable to everyone interested in the cultural development of the state.

308 pages, blue buckram, $2.50

Roy Gittinger's

Formation of the State of Oklahoma

Indian territory from the Louisiana Purchase in 1803 until the admission of Oklahoma as a Commonwealth in 1907. The Indian Treaties, the proposed plans for statehood, the provisional governments, the Boomers and the Sooners, the circumstances which led to the run of 1889, and the subsequent developments which paved the way for statehood. This book is recognized as the definitive study on the development of Oklahoma.

309 pages, maps, $2.50

John Alley's

City Beginnings in Oklahoma Territory

The spontaneous growth from the tent encampments which followed the run in 1889 of Oklahoma City, Kingfisher, Stillwater, El Reno, Norman, and other towns and cities of central Oklahoma. The development of these cities into organized urban communities is a story unique in America, not only for the circumstances of settlement, but because the Federal Government in opening the territory for settlement failed to make any provision for the establishment of law and order; each community became a law unto itself. An important item for all collectors of Oklahoma lore.

• 130 pages, early day pictures, $1.50

Send the University Book Exchange your personal card and we will be glad to wrap these books as Christmas gifts and mail them direct to whomever you designate. We can ship, postpaid, when remittances accompany the order.

Any book from any publisher

UNIVERSITY BOOK EXCHANGE
 NORMAN, OKLAHOMA
 Charles C. Miles, Manager

ORDER FORM

The University Book Exchange,
 Union Building,
 Norman, Oklahoma.

Please send the following books:

-----
 -----
 -----
 -----
 -----

MAIL TO:

Name -----

Address -----

City ----- State -----

- Wrap as a gift.
 Enclose card.
 Check is enclosed.