Many of the New Alumni Turn to Service
In Uncle Sam's Armed Forces—Reports
Of Class Members Come From 40 States

TO 40 states and the District of Columbia, to Canada and Venezuela, to Hawaii and the Philippines, and to the nation's armed forces on land, sea and in the air have gone the men and women of the University of Oklahoma graduating class of 1941.

Direct reports from more than half of the new alumni had been received by Sooner Magazine when this article went to press. The '41 graduates reported in from every state in the Union except Delaware, Idaho, Maine, New Hampshire, North Dakota, South Carolina, Utah and Vermont.

The 40 states represented make a larger total than the 28 from which '40 graduates reported in a similar survey conducted by Sooner Magazine a year ago. Perhaps because of the national defense program, the new graduates are scattering more widely than usual.

The states attracting the most '41 graduates outside of Oklahoma are Texas, Kansas, Arkansas, Illinois and New York, and of course the federal government's huge demand for trained workers has drawn many Sooners to Washington, D. C.

War conditions probably explain the fact that none of the new graduates reported in from countries outside of North and South America and U. S. possessions.

In spite of the attraction of apparently greener pastures far away, about two-thirds of the graduating class chose to remain in Oklahoma, the survey reveals. This is about the customary percentage. Oklahoma City, as usual, draws the largest number of those choosing to remain in their own state. Norman comes next, largely because many men and women who received bachelor's degrees are continuing their education in professional schools. Tulsa, Lawton, Bartlesville and Fort Sill have large delegations from the '41 Class.

Teaching is the occupation to which the largest number of members of the class have turned, though military service ranks a close second.

Following is Sooner Magazine's geographical directory of those members of the Class of '41 from whom definite reports on addresses and occupations had been received by mid-October.

avored retaining Boomer Sooner as is. Of 103 students interviewed on the subject, 90 were opposed to the change and 13 voted for a new O. U. song.

The words of Boomer Sooner were adapted to the Boola Boola tune early in in campus history. Other songs, more or less familiar to Sooners, are Oklahoma Chant by Jessie Lone Clarkson, '27fa; Hail to Oklahoma, by Gayle V. Grubb; O. K. Oklahoma, by Fred Waring, orchestra leader, and Oklahoma Hail, words by Mrs. A. B. Adams and musical arrangement by R. H. Richards.

One o'Clock Curfew

Most important of a few changes made in campus social life by President Joseph A. Brandt is the extension of the Friday and Saturday night curfew for co-eds from midnight to 1 a. m.

Extension of the weekend hours was ordered after the change had been recommended by an undergraduate committee composed of students representing fraternities, sororities and campus organizations.

President Brandt and other University officials, hoping to readjust regulations to center social life around the campus, gave their approval. Dance hours will be lengthened slightly as a result. Purpose of the lengthening of social hours on Friday and Saturday nights is to discourage trips to Oklahoma City after the O. U. campus curfew. Student leaders believed the change would be a wholesome one.

President Brandt also authorized, on an experimental basis, the installation of a dance floor in the Union Cafeteria, with dancing to be permitted from 4 to 10 p. m. every day except Sunday. Only nickel-oden music will be used, and there will be no charge for dancing.

Teachers a Line of Defense

Men behind the lines, in the opinion of W. B. Bizzell, are the nation's teachers—a second line of defense in backing up the military, naval and air forces.

Mr. Bizzell, president emeritus and head of the University's department of sociology, likens the millions of American teachers to a second United States army whose first duty is to safeguard and cherish democratic principles.

One of the dangers to democracy is the curtailment of educational opportunity for children, he believes, because "one of the first things that happens when a country starts to change its form of government is curtailment of expenditures for education, and regimentation of school procedures."

Faculty Lectures

Recommending a more intensive study of Indian languages before they die out,

Fritz Frauchiger, assistant professor of modern languages, opened the 1941-42 series of University public lectures with a talk on "Descriptive Linguistics."

"In our part of the United States," he said, "there are many Indian languages that should be studied before it is too late." These languages will die out by the year 2041, he believes.

A schedule of the other public lectures follows:

November 5—Spencer Norton, head of the department of piano, on "Folk and Regional Influences in American Music."

December 3—Carl C. Rister, professor of history, on "The Southern Plainsman."

February 4—C. G. Lalicker, associate professor of geology, on "Geology of Everyday Life."

March 4—Gilbert Harold, acting head of the department of finance, on "The Stock Market."

Covering the Campus

Bus Mills, one of Oklahoma's major contributions to professional baseball, has left the Kansas City Blues to finish work on a degree in geology at O. U. Versatile Mr. Mills was one of the star athletes on the campus during the late '20s, making a name for himself on the football gridiron as quarterback, and in track as a javelin thrower.

► Soldiers in khaki filled a large part of the O. U. campus in late September when enlisted men and officers of the Second Cavalry Division, stationed at Fort Riley, Kansas, spent the night on the campus. The division was en route home after taking part in war maneuvers in Louisiana.

► Eddie Hurst, Oklahoma City, has been elected president of the senior law class. Clifford Cartwright, Wewoka, is vice president, and Ted Breed, Oklahoma City, secretary-treasurer. . . . Arthur Jones, Fort Cobb, has been chosen chief of Sequoyah Indian Club, an organization of about 35 members representing 12 different tribes. Other officers are George Roberts, Pawnee, medicine man; Nelda Bray, Lawton, sachem; Vivian Saunkeah, Oklahoma City, keeper of the wampum, and Scott Tonemah, Lawton, keeper of the tomtom.

► New and old students got acquainted shortly after the opening of school in September at an all-University mixer sponsored by the campus Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. Music was provided by the University band and entertainment included impersonations, tap dances and the singing of school songs.

► Recent approval from WPA headquarters in Washington, D. C., of a $40,000 expenditure to continue the excavation and preparation of fossil bones at the Univer-
