OUR OWN O.U. ROLL CALL

JOHN H. MILLER

(Class of 1940)

Our chronicle of the record of John Miller at O.U. is not a story of athletic prowess, or extra-curricular activities. Rather, it reveals the record of a boy who went to college and concentrated upon just one thing—the job of getting all he could out of the O.U. school of Business Administration. How well he succeeded is shown by the marks he received in his studies.

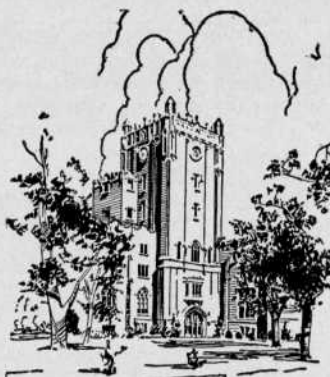

His first year of college work, beginning in the fall of 1935, was at Oklahoma City University. In the fall of 1936, he started in the School of Business Administration at O.U., receiving his B. S. Degree in 1940.

John has literally grown up with the First National Bank and Trust Company, starting with the bank as a page boy while he was still a student in Classen High School in Oklahoma City, in 1931. During his college course he continued to work in the bank during summer vacation. He has worked up through the bank's transit department and auditing department, and is now clerk in the Trust Department, where he is engaged principally in checking and preparing income tax records and reports.

He is a member of the First Baptist Church in Oklahoma City, and since he is not married, he believes it won't be long until he will follow the example of several other members of our organization, in answering a call to military service.
