

Calling the Roll of Sooner Classes

By ELAINE LARECY

~1900~

News of the death four years ago of Jacob J. Hertz, '00ba, was forwarded to the Alumni Office by C. Ross Hume, '98ba, '00ma, Anadarko attorney, who heard in October from the widow, Mrs. Anna Hertz, of Chicago. Mr. Hertz died November 25, 1938, at the age of 64 years in Berlin, Germany, where he was buried. He was a pensioned officer of the International Harvester Company which he had represented as branch manager in Neuss, a manufacturing city on the Rhine, and in the company's other offices in South America, Bohemia, Austria and the United States. As chairman in 1940 of the 1900 class reunion committee, Mr. Hume made several unsuccessful attempts to secure information about Mr. Hertz. In August, 1942, after receiving word of Mr. Hertz's death Mr. Hume wrote to an aunt in Kansas for information. His letter was sent on to Mrs. Hertz who returned to the States from Germany in 1938 to settle the estate after her husband's death.

An appeal to the women of the nation to let their congressmen know what they think about the government and the war was made by Mike Monroney, '24ba, representative from Oklahoma's fifth district, in an article in the November issue

LOIS HORNE, '21BA

Keeping starlets in trim with the three R's, Lois Horne, '21ba, lends dash to the teaching profession as resident teacher in charge of all the juveniles employed by Warner Brothers moving picture studio in Hollywood.

Her proteges at the present time are Patty Hale, Dolores Moran, Joyce Reynolds and Joan Leslie, who appeared in Sergeant York, The Male Animal and Yankee Doodle Dandy. Former Chickasha resident, Miss Horne used to tutor the Dead End Kids, was a Kappa Alpha Theta at the University.

of Woman's Home Companion. In an article entitled "Dear Mr. Congressman," the lanky, affable young Oklahoman explained that "public opinion is now largely exerted through the mail received by Senate and House members." He urged the women of America to write unhesitatingly to their representatives in Washington when they have genuine suggestions or criticisms. Organized mail campaigns put on by pressure groups generally wind up in congressional wastebaskets, the congressman said, but to sincere, honest correspondents he added, "Your letter to your congressman counts; don't forget that."

BRADSHER-MOUSSA: Miss Vonette Bradsher and Anniece Moussa, '24ba, both of Oklahoma City, were married there November 2. Until her marriage, Mrs. Moussa was an employee of Vitagraph, Incorporated, with which Mr. Moussa is associated as auditor. The couple are at home in Oklahoma City.

Verlin Glenn Thompson, '24geol, and Mrs. Thompson (Gladys Elaine Thompson, '26), Oklahoma City, have chosen the name William Glenn for their baby son born October 3.

War information offices in Oklahoma were consolidated in October when the news and public inquiry bureaus were brought together under the direction of Harrington Wimberly, '24ba, state Office of War Information officer. The change resulted from the reorganization of information offices in Washington under Elmer Davis. Mr. Wimberly, on leave of absence as publisher of the Altus Times-Democrat, has headquarters in Oklahoma City.

The circuit system of news exchange completed last June by Mr. Kimball and associates was described in a recent issue of Editor and Publisher as an aid in wartime to short-staffed newspapers. Publisher Kimball has since gone into the Navy as a lieutenant stationed at Quonset Point, Rhode Island.

Laura C. McMahan, '30ed, is enrolled in graduate social work in Tulane University at New Orleans.

A charge that public school teaching methods are seriously hampering Army and Navy training programs was made by John W. Morris, '30ed, instructor in aerology at the Naval Reserve Aviation Base at Norman, in an article, "Can't We Do Better Than This?", in a recent issue of Oklahoma Teacher. Mr. Morris stated that air cadets are entering training with tragically poor foundations in subjects they should have learned thoroughly in high school. He blamed the indifference of high school teachers and their willingness to let pupils slide through courses. Mr. Morris, formerly on the faculty of Southeastern State College at Durant, declared the necessity for repeating basic courses is slowing down the military and naval training programs to a serious degree.
