For his toll of destruction and extraordinary heroism, the Sooner pilot received the Navy Cross from Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, who on a secret trip inspected the Solomon Islands fighting front and personally decorated 27 Marine and Navy heroes.

Leader of a Marine group, tall, husky Major Smith first gained recognition during the early days of the Solomons' battle when he shot down nine Jap planes in nine days.

► Five other Sooners last month received awards for gallantry, heroism and outstanding service. Maj. Mitchell E. Sims, '39, Norman, was awarded the Silver Star for gallantry, according to a dispatch from General MacArthur's headquarters. Major Sims, who was promoted a few days before receiving the honor, was presented the award for his action in shooting down an enemy bomber and making a safe landing, his own plane severely damaged.

► Maj. John D. Bridges, '34-'37, an Army Air Corps pilot since 1938, was awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in action over Rabaul, New Britain, on August 7. He received the award for courage and leadership displayed during a mass daylight attack on a Japanese airdrome at Rabaul. Major Bridges was leading a flight of planes which was intercepted by 25 Jap Zeroes. During the fierce engagement which followed seven enemy planes were shot down. Former Oklahoma City resident, Major Bridges attended the University three years, played football.

► Lt. (jg) Jules H. Bloch, Jr., '37bus, Oklahoma City, received commendation from the Navy Department for outstanding conduct during action. He went on sea duty in March, 1941, and last was based at the Armed Guard Center in Brooklyn, New York. In civilian life, Lieutenant Bloch was associated with the First National Bank in Oklahoma City.

► Sgt. John H. Crowder, '23-'24, Bartlesville, was awarded the Air Medal, newest military honor, by the Alaskan Defense Command. Sergeant Crowder was one of twelve non-commissioned officers cited for heroism or extraordinary achievement during flights.

► Thurston J. Lewis, '37-'41, Heavener, who promised Japanese pigtailed to all his friends when he enlisted in the Navy the day after Pearl Harbor, received special commendation for meritorious conduct as one of 19 men who stayed at their guns while their ship was sinking. Fifteen of the crew were rescued. Mr. Lewis lived and worked in Oklahoma City while attending the University, commuting daily by bicycle.

ACE OF THE SOLOMONS
Wearing the well earned title of "Ace of the Solomons," Maj. John L. Smith, '36bus, Lexington, last month led all the rest in number of enemy craft downed with 16 planes personally accounted for. His squadron has 83 planes to its credit. Major Smith, husky six-foot Marine pilot, first gained notice in the early stages of the Solomon Islands and Guadalcanal battles when he shot down nine Jap planes in nine days. His picture along with three companions in fatigue clothes appeared in the October 26 issue of TIME

► Sooner pilots continued to participate in raids over Europe during October, according to dispatches from the U. S. Bomber Command in England. Maj. Clark Kegelman, '34-'36, El Reno, first American aviator to win the Distinguished Service Cross for action in Europe, commanded an attack on Le Havre, and on October 9 took part in a raid on Lille, which was the largest single daylight raid of the war. Also on the bombing mission, which was directed at Lille's important factories and railroad yards, were Lt. Lonnie Miers, '39-'41, Cushing; Lt. John R. Mode, '37-'38, Tulsa, and Sgt. Stanley V. Preskitt, '38-'39, Oklahoma City.

► Gene Neville, '35, Oklahoma City flier with the Royal Air Force in England, was reported missing in action as of September 26 "in air operations," according to a notification received by his family in Oklahoma City October 2. Hope was revived for the pilot when a letter dated September 28 was received from the British Broadcasting Company, revealing he would speak on a short-wave program October 3. The broadcast was canceled and reset for October 10, then canceled again. Last report received by the Nevilles was a wire from the B.B.C. stating that the broadcast was to be transcribed from a record made by the pilot three weeks before he was reported missing.

► Lt. John E. Powell, '36-'40, bomber pilot from Holdenville, was reported missing in action as of October 2 somewhere in mid-Pacific. He enlisted in the Air Corps in June, 1941, and had been on foreign duty in Hawaii about four months. Lieutenant Powell, an accounting major, left the University in 1940, went to New York and became a guide at the World's Fair. He was employed by the Oklahoma State Tax Commission until his enlistment. His family includes his mother, Mrs. W. G. Powell, six brothers and two sisters.

► Maj. Robert H. Parham, '33bus, Norman, accompanied seven war correspondents who covered the daylight raid on the Greek port of Pylos on Navarino Bay early in October. A group of American bombers, including "Snow White," "Jersey Jerk," and "The Witch," blasted German supply ships in the harbor and downed four Axis combat planes sent up. Major Parham, a United Press business manager in civilian life, was a public relations officer at Tampa, Florida, before going into overseas service.

► H. B. Lanning, Jr., '39-'42, Nowata, of the Marine Corps, was reported with the American forces in the Solomons last month. Former advertising salesman on the Oklahoma Daily, student newspaper, Mr. Lanning left school last January to join the Marines.

► Raymond O. Barton, '07, former Ada resident now commander of a motorized division at Camp Gordon, Georgia, became the University's only known two-star general last month with his promotion to major general. Formerly stationed at Fort Benning, General Barton has more than 30 years of active military service to his credit. After graduating from the U. S. Military Academy at Annapolis, Maryland, in 1912, he was stationed for a time at Fort Sill as an Infantry instructor. In the first World War, he was a battalion commander with the army of occupation in Germany and before returning to America turned over command to the French, in an official ceremony, the last American-held fortress in Germany.

► Hal Muldrow, Jr., '28bus, former Norman insurance man, donned the silver eagle insignia of grade last month following his promotion to colonel. With the 45th

Abroad

England's Queen Mary impressed Capt. George Shirk, '36law, Oklahoma City, as being "very nice and sweet" when she made a public appearance recently in a city where he was stationed. On the sidelines in the village square, Captain Shirk witnessed the ceremony in which the queen accepted purses donated for the Y.W.C.A., of which she is a grand patroness. He wrote homefolks that English women crowded around the American soldiers after she left, demanding to know if they liked the queen. They all seemed greatly relieved, he reported, to learn of her popularity in the United States. Captain Shirk was with the R.O.T.C. staff at the University before going into foreign service.

Maj. Honald N. Mardt, '28-'30, Oklahoma City, was reported on the staff of a unique school set up in the Indian jungles to train Chinese refugees in the use of modern fighting equipment and technique. He is chief instructor in the truck operations division of the school, the existence of which was only recently disclosed. Major Mardt, who formerly was on duty with the Civilian Conservation Corps in Oklahoma, finds the Chinese easy to teach, and says, "Chinese who have never driven anything more complicated than a wheelbarrow are being turned into truck drivers in two weeks time."

On duty in England were Maj. Nathan B. Chenuit, Jr., '37eng, formerly a petroleum engineer with the British-American Oil Company in Wichita Falls, Texas, with the Ordnance department; Lt. Robert A. Champlin, '32; Capt. Murble H. Pearson, '38med, formerly a Civilian Conservation Corps camp physician at Dillon, Montana, with the Medical Corps; Lt. William Ray Estes, '38-'41, Oklahoma City, with the Air Corps, and Lt. Donald D. Hickman, '37law, with the Quartermaster Corps.

Reported stationed in the Pacific war area were

Capt. Russell L. Sigler, '38eng, Nowata, with an Ordnance company, and Lt. Platho P. Scott, '41eng, Tulsa, with the Field Artillery. Lt. Robert R. Read, '41eng, Lawton, was with the Marine Corps in the Guadalcanal battle area. On duty in New Caledonia, an island off the coast of Australia, was Lt. John T. Stone, '41geol. Mrs. Stone, the former Peggy Sue Duncan, who attended the University in the summer of '42, is making her home with her parents in Louisville, Kentucky.

A sad story of a struggle with Australian cooking methods is told by Capt. Barron C. Housel, '34bus, Oklahoma City, and Lt. Frank T. McCoy, Jr., '35ba, Nashville, Tennessee, on General MacArthur's staff. The two Oklahomans, hungry for something even faintly resembling home cooking, presented their Australian cook with an American cook book, and requested some fried chicken and pancakes. After earnest effort, the cook set before them fried rooster, tough, stringy and tasteless. The next morning breakfast featured pancakes in such state that the hungry officers decided to forget about food for the duration.

Capt. Bill H. Wylie, '39geol, Oklahoma City, Lt. Vivien Nemecek, '36bs, Britton, and Elson Ray Phelps, '42law, Enid, were stationed in the Hawaiian Islands recently. Captain Wylie and Mr. Phelps are with the Coast Artillery.

Lt. Com. Denzel R. Carr, '22, Honolulu, is on active duty with the Navy. Mrs. Carr (Elizabeth Ball, '24ba, '40ba), has taught English at the Roosevelt High School in Honolulu for the last six years.

Two men stationed in England received promotions recently. They were Robert F. Brooks, '33geol, Okmulgee, who was made a major in the Air Corps, and Rollin C. Boyles, '25, Oklahoma City, promoted to the rank of captain.

Donald D. Walker, '35-'38, Tuttle, stationed in Australia, has been commissioned a second lieutenant.

Capt. Harry H. Alley, '37law, Norman, was reported on duty with an air squadron in England.

Lt. Robert A. Champlin, '27-'32, Lawton, is an Army censor stationed in England.

Lt. T. Melvin Beveridge, '37-'40, was reported on duty in the Aleutian Islands.

Lt. Medford Cashion, Jr., '38eng, is a Naval aviator stationed in Cuba.

James Mills, '36eng, Norman, who is on foreign duty, has been promoted to the rank of major.

Lt. Marion Setzer, '35geol, of Oklahoma City, is stationed in Porto Rico with the Coast Artillery.

Sgt. Sterling N. Grubbs, '41ba, is serving with the Signal Corps at Cochrane, Ontario, Canada.

Roy L. Hickox, '35ba, Oklahoma City, who was recently promoted to the rank of major, and Lt. Jesse M. Grant, '41, Norman, are stationed in Ireland.

Sooner Sports

to win a game this season, the Oklahoma showing was impressive. The Sooners, especially in the second half, threw up a formidable land and air offensive, supplemented by intelligent kicking and excellent pass defense featuring a five-man line that smothered Ray Evans, Kansas's ace passer, who hit only 5 passes in 22 attempts for 51 yards. The Oklahoma reserves, most of them raw sophomores, came through satisfactorily, furnishing ample encouragement for the hope that Oklahoma has at last overcome the confusion attending the untimely loss of Wallace and with Nebraska and Missouri to be entertained at Owen Field, may yet rise about her handicaps and become a power in the 1942 Big Six race.

The remainder of the Oklahoma schedule:

- Oct. 24 Nebraska at Norman (Parents' Day)
- Oct. 31 Iowa State at Ames
- Nov. 7 Kansas State at Norman
- Nov. 14 Missouri at Norman (Homecoming)
- Nov. 21 Temple at Philadelphia
- Dec. 5 William and Mary at Norman.

Football Games Broadcast

Radio Station WNAD (640 kilocycles) resumed broadcasts of Sooner football games this fall and thus far, save for the first encounter with the Aggies, has carried all games.

Of those yet to be played, all will be broadcast with the possible exception of the game with Temple University at Philadelphia. Difficulty in getting a line through may be overcome in time, officials said.

Remaining games which will be broadcast over WNAD include the Kansas State at Norman, November 7; Missouri at Norman, November 14, and William and Mary at Norman, December 5. Les Metzger, Lawton sporting goods salesman, does the broadcasting.
