

One Old-Timer Salutes Another

The Tyler and Simpson Company, which has been distributing quality food products over this part of the country since 1879, salutes the University of Oklahoma on the institution's Fiftieth Anniversary. Both this business institution and this outstanding educational institution have been pioneers in the development of Oklahoma and the Southwest.

There is an interesting parallel in the fact that the University has always emphasized quality in the kind of higher education it has offered; and the Tyler and Simpson Company has emphasized quality in the food products it has distributed through these many years.

Look for these Quality Products

When you visit your independent grocer, look for MOON ROSE and NU-CREST canned and packaged goods. You will find them to be of excellent quality and reliable goodness. Look for these brands and buy with confidence.
