

Medical School

By ROBERTA HUFF

ALUMNI of the Medical School will have a luncheon meeting April 22 in Tulsa, in connection with the Oklahoma Medical Association convention there April 22, 23 and 24. Dr. Ralph McGill, '22med, Tulsa, is in charge of arrangements. A revised constitution for the association will be voted on at the meeting.

Dr. Ray M. Balyeat, '18med, Oklahoma City, president of the Medical School Alumni Association, has announced the appointment of the following "key men" to look after affairs of the association in various districts of the state. These men, and their districts, are as follows: Dr. Clarence F. Needham, '24med, Ada, Southeast; Dr. J. Wendell Mercer, '25med, Enid, Northwest; Dr. I. A. Nelson, '25med, Tulsa, Northeast; and Dr. Howard Angus, '38med, Lawton, Southwest.

► Third Annual LeRoy Long Lecture, sponsored by Phi Beta Pi fraternity, was given March 13 at the Medical School by Dr. Charles W. Mayo of the Mayo Foundation, Rochester, Minnesota, who spoke on "Principles of Surgery of the Colon."

► Members of Phi Beta Pi, honorary fraternity for medical students, last month held formal opening for a house at 607 Northeast Fifteenth Street in Oklahoma City—only fraternity house maintained in connection with the Oklahoma City division of the University of Oklahoma. Phi Beta Pi is the oldest medical fraternity connected with the University, having been organized at Norman before the School of Medicine was moved to Oklahoma City.
