OF ATHLETICS

Winning 17 of 20 games, Coach Jack Baer's University of Oklahoma baseball team finished its 1946 season with a higher won-and-lost percentage than any Sooner club of the last 22 years.

Composed largely of discharged war veterans, the 1946 Sooners swept their Texas trip against Texas, Texas Christian and Baylor. The Sooners won five of six Big Six games and barring a strong finish by Kansas, will win the Big Six flag. The season's percentage mark of .850 is all the more remarkable when one considers Oklahoma met the best clubs in the Southwest, Big Six and Missouri Valley leagues.

Ace of the Norman Baers was Center-fielder Dale Mitchell of Cloud Chief who hit a phenomenal .507 over the 20-game span. Some fine hitters have played for Oklahoma since the founding of baseball here in 1892 but there is no record of any Sooner batsman ever before hitting .507 for the year.

Back in 1925 Coach Bill Owen's Sooners won 10 of 11 games for a percentage of .909, losing a single game to the Oklahoma Aggies when Hayman pitched and batted the Stillwaters to a 4-2 tenth-inning triumph. That Sooner club had a great battery with pitchers Hall Snodgrass and Norde Hunter throwing to Joe "Skunk" Mayes, finest Sooner catcher of modern times.

Back in 1915 Bennie Owen developed a Sooner baseball team that won 17 of 21 games and finished .809. It beat a strong Chinese University team from Honolulu, and won three of four from the Oklahoma Aggies. Some of its players were Felt, a fine catcher; Shortstop Neil Johnson, Raybourn Smiser, Billie Clark, Norman Brillhart, Price and Elmer Ponder, a pitcher who later went to the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Only known all-victorious Oklahoma team was Owen's outfit of 1909 that won all 13 collegiate games on its slate, but lost twice each to Oklahoma City of the Texas League and Enid of the Western Association. Some of its players were First-sacker Ed Fleming, Catcher Dick Conkling, and Pitcher Frank Buttram. It built some fantastic scores, beating Southwestern 30-4, Oklahoma Aggies 18-1, Henry Kendall 15-0 and Christian University 23-8.
