

-CORRESPONDENCE-

Durham, South Carolina

Dear Ted,

We would like to renew our Sooner Magazine subscription and have enclosed a check for three dollars. During the past year we have received only a sporadic copy, and have missed all the O.U. news.

My wife, the former Jeanne Stevens, '45ba, and I have moved around a good deal since leaving the University. Following graduation from the School of Medicine, Washington University, St. Louis, Missouri, in June 1948, I interned on the ward medical service at Barnes Hospital, St. Louis. Since July we have been here at Duke University Hospital, where I am serving as an assistant resident physician. Next July we will be moving again. This time to New York City, where I will be engaged in medical research at Presbyterian Hospital and Columbia University.

We have also made two valuable acquisitions since leaving O.U. They are both girls; Rebecca Jeanne, nearly three, and Ann Hayden, four months.

Needless to say we are mighty proud of the O.U. football team.

Sincerely, James F. Nickel, M. D., '46ba.

Dear Ed,

Thought you might like to know that another O.U. graduate is making good in the writing field. I'm combining journalism and nursing and getting paid for it.

My latest article, "To Everything There is a Time," appears on the October issue of "R. N.—A Journal for Nurses." The magazine has a circulation of 150,000 registered nurses, and is sent all over the world.

I graduated from the University School of Nursing in 1943. Serving three years with the Army Nurse corps, and then worked for Dr. William Bonham, '35bs, '37med. Before the war I was employed by Dr. Ralph Clark. Both Dr. Bonham and Dr. Clark are of Oklahoma City.

This spring I completed a course in Public Health nursing at Indiana University.

Publicity is the best way of reaching the majority over a widespread area, and each time the University's name appears in print it will become better known. So it's up to the alumni and students to convince the public.

Perhaps I have helped a little. I hope so!

Yours truly, Dardanella Lister Evans, '43nurse,
