Hall of Shame Started

25 Years Ago

When the older generation was the younger generation they must have performed much like the younger generation. A good sample comes from a unique section in the 1925 Sooner Yearbook. Entitled "The Sooner Hall of Shame," it reads like this:

"Editor's Note: This department modeled on the National Hall of Fame, is the highest honor that can be bestowed upon a student. It is even more of an honor than being mentioned in the lurid columns of the Oklahoma Daily, the Tattle Tale or the Hear 'em Swear, perpetrated by such men as Cole and Hodges."

Some of the nominations read like this:

Arthur Grunert, for religious activity. (Grunert, '25, is a lawyer in Oklahoma City.) Chester Cole, for any number of things; taciturnity. (Cole, '26ba, is an official of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company in Dallas.) John O. Brittain, for his shyness with the co-eds. (Brittain, '26 ba, lives in Oklahoma City.)

Nor were the faculty members completely ignored. H. H. Herbert, David Ross Boyd Professor of Journalism, received an honorary nomination for his valiant stand in defense of the Whirlwind.

The Oklahoma Daily received a special commendation for its co-operation with the Student Council. (To prove that such co-operation was a good thing, the Oklahoma Daily and Student Senate of 1950 also made remarks about each other.)

Alpha Epsilon, Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Epsilon Sigma and President's honor class. Mr. and Mrs. Frye have two children, Diane, 6, and Michael Leroy, 1.

Help Wanted

It is becoming increasingly difficult for the Alumni Records office and the Sooner Magazine to keep up with the correct addresses of the Alumni. The job is made no easier by the Sooners who will have an Army or Navy address in the future. The impossible job of address sleuthing can be made easy if all Alumni will jot down the new addresses to which they are moving and mail it at the same time the postoffice is notified of a change of address. Then the Sooner Magazine will arrive on time and friends who inquire at the office can be sure of your whereabouts.

A Surplus Existed

10 Years Ago

Fall of 1940 saw the formal opening of a new museum on the University campus—a museum of classical antiquities. Dr. O. W. Reinmuth, professor of classical languages, assembled more than 125 Greek, Roman and Egyptian items for the showplace. Most valuable piece in the collection was an Italian war helmet dating back to 215 BC. It was found in Cannae, on the field where Hannibal once inflicted a severe defeat upon the Romans. The collection also included ancient jewelry, mirrors, glassware and papyrus documents.

Edwin Fast, '41ms, '46ph.d, was selected as the first recipient of the Halliburton industrial research fellowship at the University. A study was made of spectrum analysis of brines and similar solutions for correlation with underground structures. Fast is a research physicist in Bartlesville.

In the September 1940 Sooner Magazine: "The University of Oklahoma contributed $85,615 to Governor Leon C. Phillips' economy program by leaving untouched that much of its $1,261,870 appropriation for the last fiscal year." Maybe the University could take it now.

The 1940 Sooner Magazine received honorable mention for its coverage of Sooner sports and honorable mention for its letters department at the annual Alumni magazine contest conducted by the American Alumni Council.
