

A Happy Ending

Rush week—1950—brought a period of annual activity to the University when some 900 prospective sorority and fraternity pledges were on the campus for the September 3-8 festivities.

For the sorority rushees, activities began Sunday at 4 p.m. with registration at the women's quadrangle. Sunday evening and Monday were spent in attending open house of each of the 12 sororities. The following three days were filled with rush parties, climaxed Friday by bid house and dinner parties given by the sororities for their new pledges.

Fraternity rushees registered in the Union lobby Monday. Preferential breakfasts and parties followed Tuesday morning. Activities ended for the new pledges Friday evening at bid house in the University amphitheater.

Numerically, the rushees hit a new high and low this year. Approximately 400 co-eds went through rush week activities—a marked increase over past years—with a total of 309 pledging sororities.

Fraternity rush registration dwindled to 425—the lowest since World War II—with 412 men being pledged to the 23 University fraternities.

The 1950 pledges found they weren't the only additions to the campus—two sorority houses also made a debut at autumn rush. The Gamma Phi Beta sorority made their initial bid for pledges in a two-story ranch style house of sandstone and redwood flanked on the southwest by a large patio. Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity is occupying their former home.

Next door to Gamma Phi's is the new Alpha Chi Omega sorority house of brick and stone which brings a touch of modernistic architecture to the campus.

The 1950 pledges include:

Richard Matzene Dies

Richard Gordon Matzene, prominent Ponca City photographer and painter, died at his home there in the late summer following a heart attack. He was 69.

Matzene had been a resident of Ponca City for the last 25 years, having come to Oklahoma from Simla, India.

In 1936, he and Lew Wentz, late Ponca City oilman, donated a collection of oriental art objects valued at $250,000 to the University's art school.

Brown Finishes Manuscript

Charles Brown, '33ba, '34ma, former member of the University journalism faculty and now on the staff of Pennsylvania State College, returned to Norman this summer to complete work on a textbook manuscript.

Brown is co-author of the Bald Eagle Press publication Walt Whitman of the New York Aurora. The book is a collection of recently discovered Whitman writings.
