Inaugural Preparations

25 Years Ago

President William Bennett Bizzell's inauguration as fourth president of the University had been set for February 4-5, 1926, with extensive preparations being planned for the two-day inaugural festivities. Some 180 university and college presidents, 5,000 alumni of the University and hundreds of other state and national officials received invitations to attend—all of which was planned to make the inauguration the biggest occasion in the history of the school. Glen C. Clark, '13ba, now senior staff geologist for the Continental Oil Company in Ponca City, and at that time president of the Oklahoma Alumni Association, was scheduled to give the welcoming address at the inauguration.

December or June—the month makes no difference for marriage potentialities—and neither did it in 1925. The marriage of Miss Grayce Breene of Tulsa to Robert S. Kerr, '16, at that time state commander of the Oklahoma Department of the American Legion, was announced December 26. The Kerrs made their home in Ada following their marriage where (now junior United States Senator) Kerr was engaged in the practice of law. ## For a Buck, a Hollow Sound 20 Years Ago

University students were minus interest in fine arts—or it was thought so by Frederick Holmberg, now deceased, but at that time dean of the school of fine arts. From the December 1930 Sooner Magazine comes the report that only 250 seats were filled in the University auditorium (which had a capacity of 1,800 persons) for the Opera Comique Company presentation of Tales of Hoffman. According to Dean Holmberg, "at a dollar a seat, the Barcarole had a hollow sound."

Campus queens were given the official brush-off as a result of a crusade directed by Dick Pearce, '31journal, at that time editor of the Oklahoma Daily and now on the editorial staff of the San Francisco Examiner, San Francisco, California. University officials pointed thumbs down on future beauty races in which a crown was to be rewarded due to reports of unethical procedure used in selecting the 1930 Whirlwind queen.

Post-season football game talk wasn't out of order 20 years ago, either. A well-known sports writer proposed a post-season game with proceeds to aid the unemployed be played between the University of Oklahoma and Oklahoma City University. He reported in his news column that "Oklahoma City University, naturally, jumped at the suggestion. The Sooners, as usual, have dug up some logical-sounding reasons why they should not participate in such a contest." The University at that time had a no-post-season-games policy—rather in contrast to the sentiment felt toward the situation by present day Big Red supporters.

Dr. Mell A. Nash, '19ba, '27ma, president of the Oklahoma College for Women, Chickasha, was one of 16 persons chosen by the Oklahoma Memorial Association for membership in the Oklahoma Hall of Fame. Dr. Nash is now chancellor of the state board of regents for higher education.

Oklahoma ended its conference football schedule with a 3 to 0 win over Kansas State. The win moved the Sooners into third place in league standings. (The score was a little higher this year—58-0—and the Sooners were a little higher in the ratings.)

Homecoming would have been happier if an alumnus had not returned as coach of the Kansas U. team that won 7 to 0. The alumnus was former Sooner Coach Ad Lindsey, '30ba. (The Sooner's last address for Lindsey was Lawrence, Kansas. He was working in an insurance business.)

Subert Turbyfill, '26ba, '32ma, was busily building and establishing a reputation for a Little Theater at Balboa highschool, Panama Canal Zone. His theater was admitted to the National Theater Conference—the only dramatic organization outside the U. S. to be so honored. Turbyfill is still at Balboa and is still putting his theater on the drama map.

Nebraska Triumphed

10 Years Ago

The biggest news on the campus was the selection of Joseph A. Brandt, '24ba, by University Regents as President of the University. He was to succeed President William B. Bizzell. Brandt is now chairman of the department of journalism at UCLA.

Walter Morris, Anadarko attorney, was elected president of the Dad's Association.

All college and university students should be called for selective service without any special consideration, concluded the National Association of State Universities. (History is repeating itself but most college students are being given special consideration if they are in the upper half of their class.)

Oklahoma gained an extra U. S. senator when Arizona citizens elected Ernest W. McFarland, '17ba, to represent them.

A new all-time record was set for attendance at a football game when Nebraska pulled some 33,377 fans into Owen stadium. The visitors managed to gain a 13-0 victory. (The record has been broken many times. To date the more than 60,000 that attended last year's Santa Clara-O.U. game holds the record.)

Mrs. Minnaetha White, '17fa (piano), '23fa (voice), was in charge of voice training in the music department at MGM studios.
