

1. THE GROTESQUE FIGURE probably does not hate life or his location on the campus as much as ferocity of countenance would indicate.

2. MOST PEOPLE WOULD CARRY a lantern in their hand. This fellow does it the hard way—he's been holding the lantern in his teeth for years.

Where Do We Keep Watch?

The representations on these two pages are prominent fixtures on the campus. Test your knowledge of the campus. Can you spot the location of each? Where do they keep watch?

3. UNUSUAL AND INTERESTING bit of statuary appears at entrance of campus building. Expression gives impression of being cold.

A season ago architecture at the University of Oklahoma was more concerned with frills and furbelows than it was with functional, economical construction.

On these two pages are presented seven distinctive images. They are all prominently displayed on or near University buildings. With one exception the images are at the front entrances of major buildings. The exception is picture 1 which has nothing to do with architectural design.

In a broad sense the figures are functional. They serve some purpose on the building they help decorate (except picture 1).

Paraphrasing a famous moderator of an equally famous television panel, can you spot their location; what is their line.

Using the answers of the staff of the Alumni Office to establish an arbitrary grading system, if you can spot the location of five you were fairly observant during your campus stay. If you can spot the placement of six you obviously gave the buildings and grounds a good, hard look. If you can spot all seven, you are an expert on University architecture and grounds.

(For the answers, please turn to page 24.)

4. THE LADY WITH THE PROPELLER and half a man represents a basic aspect of American Life. Subjugation of mankind is not the answer.

5. THIS STATUETTE is a twin to the one at the left. Location is the question; not which one has Toni.

6. THE STATUE represents a former University great. Unlike previous pictures, it represents a man who once lived and worked at .O.U.

7. LIKE No. 6, this statue represents a great man in the history of the University of Oklahoma.
