Did You Say That!

Quips and quotes that indicate what Alumni are thinking and saying—initiating a new feature of the Sooner.

"I have to wear a tie to keep warm with this air-conditioning. However, it gets hot on Saturdays with so many people coming in. Body heat has a great effect on air-conditioning. I have heard it said that an 1,100 pound cow can heat an ordinary room. You know, a cow's temperature is 101.5°, just a little higher than a human's. When you consider that an 1,100 pound cow is equal to about six or seven people, you can get the idea as to what effect a crowd of people can have on the air-conditioning of my store.

"We're just country folks out here—here you find the salt of the earth. It's good for you guys to get out and find out about the real problems of the world."—Ralph Enix, '36pharm, owner of Kingfisher's Wickmiller Drug Store, and past president of O.U. Pharmacy Alumni.

"It looks like our whole store is going to the Notre Dame game. Two of our secretaries have tickets. My dad, brother-in-law and I have been buying tickets for years, so we may just have to close down on that Saturday."—C. E. Bud Loomis, Jr., '40-'42, associated with his father in Loomis Furniture Store in Enid.

"I think it would be a good thing to move all Oklahoma A.&M. alumni holding O.U. season tickets to end zone seats."—J. Phil Burns, '27ba, president of United Securities agency of Oklahoma City. Statement was made with mock seriousness in group that included such an A.&M. alumnus.

"Let's play 'Honest John' for the coffee. One person writes one letter of the alphabet on a piece of paper—just any letter. Someone else starts the game by naming any letter of the alphabet and the others follow in order with a letter of the alphabet. The person who names the letter that is written on the paper buys the coffee. Z? How did you happen to write that down? Your wife's maiden name? Well, that's as good as any, but who would think of their wife at a time like this?"—Roy Johnson, '29ba, Bartlesville, member of legal staff of Cities Service Oil Co.

"It makes me mad to hear of some families sending their children out of state for music training. Did you know that the University of Oklahoma is listed as one of the five state universities who have brought music departments into decided eminence. Here, let me show you—right here in Grove's Dictionary of Music and Musicians."—Mrs. T. E. Weirich, (Lela Smith, '22mus), Bartlesville housewife.

"How's everything in Norman? I graduated from Norman highschool, then attended O.U. Received a B.A. degree from O.U. when I was 18. A record? Probably not. It took me four years to get the B.A. degree, but I entered college at a much younger age than most people."—O. B. Campbell, '24ba, editor-publisher of the Vinita Daily Journal and Vinita Leader. (The Sooner would be interested in hearing from other alumni who completed their degrees by the time they were 18 or younger.)

"A lot of my clients come by the house all times of the day and night. One fellow woke me up at 3:00 o'clock in the morning. He was slightly under the weather and wanted me to place a restraining order on his wife to keep her from playing bridge."—Jack Brown, '41ba, '46Law, Miami attorney.

A student, who has had some trouble keeping his grade points in condition to make satisfactory advancement towards graduation, was asked by the editor if he would return to try again this fall. His answer, "How else can I get Notre Dame football tickets. Student tickets are all that are left."

Among other O.U. graduates present at this luncheon were: Santiago Vera, P.E. '39; Jose Cirigliano, P.E. '42; Jose A. Delgado, P.E. '33; Alvaro Perez, E. Physics '52.

While in Venezuela, I made three addresses on the subject of "Present and Future Trends in Engineering Education in the United States." One group addressed was the faculty and students of the University of Zulia, which is located in Maracaibo. Conferences were held with university faculty members in Caracas and Maracaibo.

Enroute to Venezuela I stopped in Puerto Rico for a 1-day conference with the engineering faculty of the University of Puerto Rico. I was very favorably impressed with the engineering educational program of that university. While on the island I visited with Dr. Harold Hinman, Dean of the Medical School, and Mrs. Hinman (Dr. Hinman was formerly on the O.U. Staff).

The return trip to the States was made via Central America with twenty-four hour stop-overs in Panama, Costa Rica, El Salvador and Mexico City. On the plane trip from Caracas to Panama City was Jose G. Pereyra, C.E. '43, and his wife who were enroute to Lima, Peru, for a vacation.

While I was in Mexico City, I was the
