UNIVERSITY OF OKLAHOMA ALUMNI just naturally like to get together, whether graduation came last year or 30 years ago.

During the past summer and in the early fall, they were doing just that.

O. U. alumni clubs met across the country in brief reunion.

They had dinner. They elected officers. They renewed acquaintances.

They reminisced about the past. They talked about the luck of this year's football team, and reminded each other of past games. Some watched movies about past games.

Some planned trips to Norman for the coming football games. Others, who felt they wouldn't see Owen Stadium this season, planned get-togethers around television sets and radios.

On these pages are photographs of some of the persons who attended three recent O. U. alumni club meetings. With them are speakers and guests.

For more pictures of club meetings, see the November issue.
