

ROLL CALL of Alumni Newsmakers

GOLDEN DAYS—Photographs from the Roy E. Heffner Collection: Talking and Doing are different things altogether. If for no other reason than to honor The Old College Try, we'd be interested in hearing from any reader who can identify this bloody-nosed O.U. warrior of 1932.

"When I opened my July Sooner to page 16 and your new feature Golden Days, twenty-two years rolled away and I was back at O. U. as I knew it in 1936."

So began one of the letters we received in response to the initial publication of pictures taken of unidentified alumni between 1927 and 1947 by campus photographer Roy E. Heffner.

That particular correspondent (Mrs. Ava B. King, '37bs, '40ms) could only remember of the first picture's subjects that "we jokingly called them 'Romeo and Juliet,' complete with balcony scenes."

By one of those coincidences which probably would have delighted Heffner, the first picture—chosen from thousands of prints by virtue of a smile alone—was the picture of a girl who later married a man named Heffner (the man sitting next to her in the picture). To further the coincidence, the girl's first name is Edna—the first name of Roy Heffner's wife (now living in Maine).

Edna Heffner (the former Miss Edna H. Bennett of Shawnee, '39bus; the girl in the picture) is the wife of Carl Heffner, '39eng, who works at Tinker Air Force Base as a property accountant. Mrs. Heffner herself works with the Internal Revenue Service.

Next month, with your help, we hope to identify the bloody-nosed chap who appears in the photograph on page 21.
