Pretty Way to Make a Penny

ALUMNI who think that the only courses in investment are held in the business college are missing a bet by not visiting O. U.'s Museum of Art. This month investment-conscious art lovers nearly bought out the ceramic exhibition of faculty members Roger Corsaw and William H. Smith. Also on sale, in the foyer of the museum, were original graphics by such artists as Corot, Degas, and Picasso.

Smith—The Juggler, 20" x 14", $50.

Corsaw—Jar, 14" high, $30.

Smith—Prehistoric Bison, 28"x14", $75.

Smith—Ceramic Construction #1, 6'4" high, not for sale, valued at $200.

Corsaw—Vase, 9" high, $10

Corsaw—Bowl, 6" high, $10

Smith—Birds in Flight, 24"x9", $35.

Smith—Witch Doctor, 42" high, $125.
