A New Day for Alumni

3

The University of Oklahoma's first Alumni Institute, held during spring commencement weekend, is the latest evidence of new thinking about alumni, what they are and what they want from their alma mater.

The Reason for Recognition

5

The recipients of the 1962 Distinguished Service Citations had a chance to be heard as well as seen during this year's festivities—and they had a lot to say on a variety of topics.

Fifty Years After

14

Fifty years ago—and it seemed like only yesterday to members of the Golden Anniversary Class of 1912 gathering in Norman for an evening of reminiscing about the O.U. they used to know and the changes the years have brought.

The Officers for '62

20

Clinton publisher Charles Engleman has become the second newspaperman in a row to be named president of the University of Oklahoma Association. Other officers include some familiar alumni names and several new ones.
