ROLL CALL 27

◁ Here's one student's solution to the perennial parking problem at the University. This resourceful chap introduced his perpendicular plan on the north oval during a rainy winter day. The plan failed to receive the administration's backing, however, and the powers-that-be even went so far as to ticket the car. For another solution, one that's been approved by the regents, see University News.

on the cover

Though this familiar campus scene of Bizzell Memorial Library viewed from the south oval suggests an atmosphere of immutability, the University, like all of its sister institutions, is faced with the pressing problems of change. On page 10 an educator offers ways to meet the challenges of today.
