

Study & Scrutiny: Research on Young Adult Literature

Call for Manuscripts
Deadline: April 1, 2016

Study and Scrutiny: Research in Young Adult Literature, a peer-reviewed journal, invites empirical research studies, critical/theoretical essays, and interviews with authors for its third issue. Edited by Crag Hill, Leilya Pitre, and Steve Bickmore, Study and Scrutiny is an open access journal published twice a year hosted by the University of Oklahoma.

Study and Scrutiny: Research on Young Adult Literature is a journal that maneuvers between and within scholarship in the established fields of children's and adult literature. More and more graduate students are studying young adult (YA) literature; more and more critical and empirical thesis and dissertation studies are being completed. However, this scholarship is still a trickle rather than the torrent it could be because publication venues for chapter-length articles have been few and far between. Study and Scrutiny: Research on Young Adult Literature will harness the power of such scholarship in ways that will help to expand the field.

Send submissions with a title page, 100 word abstract, and originality statement as a word file to crag.a.hill@ou.edu and cc'ed to lemira1@lsu.edu. Manuscripts should range from 8,000 to 12,000 words, including footnotes, references, tables and figures. All references to the author(s) should be removed from the body of the manuscript in preparation for blind review. Study and Scrutiny: Research in Young Adult Literature follows the sixth edition of the APA style guide. Expect a decision in approximately three months.
