

An Acre of Seats in a Palace of Splendor

By Bill Peterson, Number 26 in a series.

(Photo Taken by B. Andrew Corsini)

THE DENVER THEATRE – DENVER

This house seating approximately 2000 was designed by C.W. and George L. Rapp of Chicago. Although only about two thirds the size of the Seattle Paramount, this theatre has many features similar to the Seattle house, including a large mirror on each sidewall in the balcony, central dome, and almost identical proscenium arch. The Denver has a 3/15 Wurlitzer 260 Special organ.