president's message...

In July we were treated to the fun and comradeship of the 18th annual convention of ATOS and once again were reminded of what can be accomplished by a well unified and coordinated operation.

In the dictionary the word 'Unity' is defined in part as, "A state of general good feeling - Mutual understanding - Singleness of purpose or action - The fact of something's being a whole that is more than its parts - The arrangement of the parts to one purpose or effect". Certainly all of these definitions are pertinent when we describe the organization of ATOS members into chapters and finally into the national organization. With this unified approach, the very purposes of ATOS can be so much more completely realized because the knowledge and skill of the individual member can be woven with others to produce the strong and energetic organization that we have.

We all have a part to play in the success of our society - individual members wherever they may be - Chapters to coordinate the efforts in a particular locality - and the national organization to tie each of these important pieces together for the fulfilment of our purpose. We can see the results of these actions all around us and the continued effort on the part of each of us, directed to injure no member but to benefit all, will certainly produce a society in the future that is recognized and respected by all.
