

DISCOGRAPHY

The theatre organ enthusiast will never be completely satisfied until he has acquired all the recorded music of his favorite instrument. This issue begins an extensive list of all known to have been made since the advent of the lateral disc record.

Compiled by M. H. Doner

THE COMPILATION of any discography involves much research. Early recordings are exceedingly difficult to locate, similarly obsolete catalogues and listings. The tendency for certain organists to record under assumed names posed the problem of identifying nom de plumes. To avoid errors in establishing correct relationships it is deemed advisable to list names separately save in instances where correct identity has been established. The Editor will appreciate any data about discs not listed in this catalogue. A Table of Organs used for recordings will be published at the conclusion of the series.
