M. P. MOLLER STORY PART II

It usually comes as a mild surprise even to those knowledgeable in "Pipelore" that M.P. Moller, Sr. was widely known as an automobile manufacturer. About 1902 Mr. Moller became interested in the Crawford car then manufactured in Hagerstown. He remained a major stockholder until 1922 when interest in the conventionally designed Crawford waned and he bought out the less faithful shareholders. The name was changed to the Moller Motor Car Company and late in 1922 his first car was exhibited in New York City. The car, the Dagmar, was named after his second daughter, Mary Dagmar Moller. (the origin of the name is that of the legendary Queen of Denmark, Dagmar of Bohemia.)

The Dagmar was truly a luxury car, in appearance not unlike Packard, though the design was entirely that of Mr. Moller. Mrs. Moller, still living in Hagerstown today and spritely at 94, recalls seeing the first drawings done in her husband's own meticulous hand. The Dagmar was a sporty looking vehicle with all its brightwork and hub caps in brass. A foot high gasoline filler tube stood exposed at the rear of the flat military fenders which swept back over conical wheel discs and artillery spoked wheels. Despite its 70 hp motor, it was reported to have done 87 mph when Chrysler the following year claimed only 70! As standard equipment it listed a swing out steering wheel and the front seats folded back to make twin beds. Pretty snappy for 1922!

Typical slogans for the Dagmar ran something like: "The car you will like better at the journeys end." "The car of Swagger individuality", and "It is a man's car in mechanism, for it races through space with the quiet speed of an airship."

Miss Ruth Malcolmson, "Miss Philadelphia of 1924", shown in a Dagmar in the Penn-American Motors Showroom in Philadelphia.

In 1924 Moller began to manufacture, on a cost plus arrangement, a taxicab for Ally Freed and Mickey Heidt of New York City, called the Luxor, a name coined no doubt to combine the word luxury and something egyptian which was, as all good theatre organ buffs know, all the rage. The car consisted of a small limousine body atop a 114 inch chasis and was constructed of heavy gauge metal to withstand the rigors of service in mid-Manhattan. The Luxor was painted cream and light blue with black mouldings and red striping. The lighting system was elaborate, both inside and out, and a fully lit Luxor at night has been described as a motorized christmas tree.

Moller cars were not built at the organ factory, but a few blocks away in ivy clad brick buildings, surrounded by beds of lilies of the valley, which had previously housed a firm which built casket covers! Behind the main building, near the smokestack and water tower was a large exterior elevator which was built to transport the frames from one floor to another during assembly.

Mr. Moller was president of the auto company until his death in 1937. Other cars manufactured by Moller were the Standish, Elysee delivery car ("For the deliveries of merchants of importance"). Astor, 20th Century, Moller, Blue Light, Super Paramount, Aristocrat, and Five Boro. After Mr. Moller's death, the company was liquidated.

In the meantime, Mr. Moller realized that in an expanding town a good first class hotel was needed, so in 1910 he built an all concrete, soundproof hotel near the Baltimore and Ohio R.R. station which he named the "Princess Dagmar." The name was inscribed ingoldleaf over the door of the hotel and remains there to this day though now it is used as a dormitory for young ladies attending a local medical secretarial school and the classrooms for the school are in the old M.P. Moller mansion of North Potomac Street. The hotel boasted a roof garden restaurant, then a real rarity, and was hailed as the first of its kind, structurally, in the country.

In 1928 a special Dagmar Limousine was built for a European tour by the family. While in Denmark, Mr. Moller's mother country, he was given the decoration of Knight of Ridder by King Christian X, the highest honor possible to be conferred on anyone not a member of Danish nobility.

It was said of Mr. Moller when he died, that he represented virtually the last of the great company of craftsmen- industrialists who pioneered and built the American business structure. Today Moller organs are installed in South America, Africa, Australia, India and every state of the union.
